TESTIMONIAL

Name: Ewan James

Number of years at WBHS: 5

Date of birth: 19 June 2002

It is both my honour and my privilege to be writing this testimonial for Ewan. Despite only having been his tutor for this year, I can definitely account for his growth and development scholastically as well as personally. I feel that this speaks volumes for the impact that this young man has on the world and is testament to his ability to make and leave his mark wherever he finds himself.

Ewan stands for the motto, "Fight for what is right" and he lives this daily. He concerns himself with always being compassionate so as to never be unjust or unfair. It is because of this that he is well-liked by his peers. Often, his peers (from Grade Eight to Grade Twelve) will come to him for advice and he will always take time out to help them, expecting nothing in return.

He is someone who can work alone and as part of a team. Alone, he is extremely driven and goal-oriented and in a group, he is humble in achievement. It is this nature that will prove so valuable in any kind of field as he often meeting challenges head on and never gives up until he has achieved his goals.

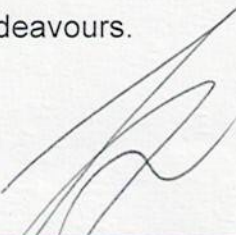

Ewan's major passions are focused around culture at Wynberg Boys' High School. He has shown particular dedication to all pillars of the school by also attending many service events over his years at Wynberg. He played B team Rugby and basketball and always kept his academics at a high standard. His well-roundedness stands him in good stead for his future.

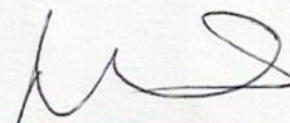

In terms of leadership, Ewan has not held any formal leadership positions in the prefect body. However, he has indeed been a leader on many fronts. He rises to any occasion to gently coach others whether it is on the sports field or in the classroom. People follow his example and often look to him as a marker for their behaviour. It is this quality that sets Ewan apart from the rest – that he leads just by being and not necessarily having a title.

Overall, with a little belief in himself, Ewan is destined for success and will make any institution proud. I look forward to seeing him blooming where he is planted.

We wish him well in his future endeavours.
